Pro-Congestion Pricing Groups Respond to Transportation Measures in Governor Cuomo’s 30-Day Amendments

“New York City public transportation is a mess, and traffic throughout the city is not just intolerable but costing the region $20 billion a year in lost economic productivity. Our groups are counting on the Governor and Legislature to agree on a comprehensive congestion pricing plan, which, in our view, is the only way out of our twin transportation crises.

“Earlier this year, the Fix NYC panel issued a fair and progressive proposal, which we strongly support. The panel’s proposal recognizes that the city depends on a working transit system to connect people to jobs and educational opportunities. Our economic, social and environmental future depends on bold, decisive action to enact the FixNYC plan into law. New Yorkers can’t afford to wait any longer.”
